Regular & Irregular Past Tense Verbs

Name:_____

Irregular verbs are verbs that do not follow the rules for what verbs are supposed to look and sound like in the past tense. Regular verbs are easy to find in the past tense because they end with the letters "–ed." You see them and use them all the time: talked, painted, worked, played, helped, smiled, cooked, turned, looked, wanted, etc.

Irregular verbs are sneaky because they don't follow the "–ed" rule. Some are just a little different, like verbs that end in "y" and the "y" changes to "i" before the "–ed" ending is added. Others take on some very unusual forms that you just have to remember. For example, you may sing in the choir today, but you sang in the choir yesterday, not "singed."

All of the verbs below are in the present tense. Some of them are regular verbs, and some are irregular verbs. Write the correct past tense form of each verb. Circle the Irregular Verbs.
