Brad Birdjan Pinkava (Co-Director) Jan Pinkava (History) Jim Capobianco (History) Brad Bird (History and Screenplay) Sharon Calahan (Lighting) Robert Anderson (Room) Darren Holmes (Film Editor) Stan Webb (Second Film Editor) Walt Disney Pictures Pixar Animation Studios Walt Disney Studios Motion Pictures â € â € œThe dying to become a chef.â € â € â € • Ratatouille tag is a computer comedian film of 2007 presented by Walt Disney Pictures, produced by Pixar Animation Studios and distributed From the last original film with Buena Vista Pictures, which Cars was the last film for the Pixar era 1991-2005 Vista. Tell the story of Remy (Voiced by Patton Oswalt), a rat that lives in Paris who wants to be a chef. The film was the eighth film produced by Pixar, and was written and directed by Brad Bird, who took over Jan Pinka in 2005, and was released on June 29, 2007 in the United States and 12 October 2007, in the UK, both for the success of widespread critical acclaim and box office. It was the last Disney / Pixar movie to use the exclusive Walt Disney Pictures logo of 1995, which started with Toy Story. Plot Remy is a rat that lives in the attic of a French country house with his brother Emile and a package of rats driven by his father Django. Equipped with a strong sense of smell and taste, Remy aspires to be a gourmet chef, inspired by the French top chef, Auguste Gusteau. Instead, however, the talent of him is put to work in sniffing for rat poison. When the package is discovered by the occupant of the house, they flee in the sewers; Remy separates from the others and ends in ruins under the Gusteau restaurant in Paris, conversing with a hallucination of the famous chef. Driven by Gusteau, Remy heads towards the skylight of the restaurant's kitchen to watch the staff in action. Here, he observes Alfredo Linguini to be taken as escuelerie from Skinner, the current owner of the restaurant, and the former sous-chef of Gusteau. When linguini pours a part of the soup and try to recreate it using random ingredients, Remy is horrified, and falls into the kitchen; Therefore, instead of escaping, repairs the soup. Remy is captured by linguini just as linguini is captured by Skinner, but before anyone can stop the service personnel, the soup is served and Skinner notes a woman who tastes the soup. He then calls the waiter and fired him, but the woman asks her to see him. She seems to be a food criticism and she likes soup. Colette, the only female staff of the staff, convinces Skinner to keep linguini, believing him to be success behind the soup. Linguini holds Remy at home instead of killing him, as Remy was the "little chef" who prepared the soup. After a lot of training, Remy and Linguini exceed their linguistic barrier, with Remy pulling linguini hair under his pair blanche to control his arts like a puppet. The couple successfully meets of Skinner and manages to serve his first course. Skinner, suspicious suspicious Talents, discovers that linguini is actually the son of Gusteau and, from the Volontã of Gusteau, is the rightful owner of the restaurant; This revelation would have ruined the Skinner plans to use the name of Gusteau to market a microwave meal line and fired it in the process. Remy discovers the documents and takes them to linguini, who subsequently shoots to Skinner and check the restaurant. Linguini and colette begin to develop a romantic bond, leaving the feel of Remy left out and taken for granted. Remy Find Emile in the restaurant garbage and Remy is gathered with the package. Django warns Remy that humans and rats will never agree, but Remy doesn't believe it. Meanwhile, Remy begrumgently feeds Emile and friends of him by stating from the pantry of the kitchen as the night pass. Anton Ego, a food critic whose past review cost one of his gusteau ratings, announces to review the restaurant the next day based on its growing success. Under the pressure of the hanging of the ego, linguini has a fall with remy, causing remy to take revenge by bringing a raid on the food food stocks that night. Linguini takes rats in the act and chases them all out, including the remy, feeling betrayed. Remy, Dejecto, is captured by Skinner. In him's cage, Remy has a final conversation with his Phantom Gusteau, who tells him that the rat had never needed the driving of him, and at that moment he is freed from Django and Emile. Remy returns to the kitchen, where a hectic linguine apologizes and asks Remy again to help. Linguini then reveals the truth about Remy to the staff, who feels out feeling deceived and betrayed; Colette later returns after recalled Gusteau's motto: "Anyone who can cook". Impressed by the determination of the child, Django organizes the rest of the package to help in the kitchen. He throws Skinner and a sanitary inspector, tied and gagged, in the freezer when they try to interfere. Linguini uses wheel skates to wait for all the tables alone, while rats (under the direction of Remy) work together to prepare a variation on ratatouille for ego. The ego is amazed by the plate, which evokes childish memories of his mother's kitchen and asks to see the chef. Linguini and colette wait for all other customers to introduce remy to ego. Although initially not believing, the ego is brought to the kitchen to watch Remy recreate the dish; He leaves without further comments. To everyone's surprise, the ego writes an incandescent review of the meal the next day, declaring Remy to be "nothing less than the best chef in France". In the Déement, Gusteau is closed by the health inspector, and Ego loses his work and his credibility as a food critic to praise a restaurant full of rats. However, he fonds a new one with enthusiasm managed by Linguini and Colette, with a lunch template for both humans and mice and a kitchen designed for the call to continue cooking. The final scene shows a long tail outside and a sign showing a mouse wearing a toque and andA spoon, above it, the name "La Ratatouille" as the rat colony settles in their new home in the bistro attic. Cast Other voices Jack Bird as Teen Rat Andrea Boerries as Street Woman Marco Boerries as Food Snob # 3 Lindsey Collins as Abusive Girlfriend Thomas Keller as Food Snob # 1 Brad Lewis How Abusive Boyfriend Lori Richardson As Food Snob # 2 Paris Loop Group Jean Marie Inarar Eric Aubrahn Patrick BÃ © Thune Anne Dolan Jodi Forrest Steve Gadler David Gasman Matthew GÃ © CZY Randall Holden Tercelin Kirtley Mark Lesser Sharon Mann Marie-EugÃ © Nie MarÃ © Chal Pascal Massix Kentaro Matsuo Marc PÃ © Rez Doug Rand StÃ © Phane Roux Estelle Simon Sybille Tururau Allan Wenger List of Cameos The Pizza Planet truck appears on the bridge over the Seine river in the scene where Skinner chases Remy. During a street scene, Bomb Voyage can be seen in the background as a mime. The boy who looks at Mimo is the young Anton Ego (from Anton's flashback). Bomb Voyage is also present on the first page of the newspaper in which Colette reads the review of Solene Leclaire. A shadow of Dug from the next Pixar feature up can be seen as Remy runs through an apartment. When linguini is trying to find a place for remy to hide, it turns out that the boxers of him have the incredible logo on them. Several Chinese food containers that match what Manny and Gypsy used to perform their act in Bug's Life can be seen inside the linguini refrigerator. A poster with the Super Suit of Mr. Incredible is briefly seen during the scene where Skinner chases Remy. When Emile tries to feel the taste of the strawberry, you can listen to some notes of Lady's "beautiful night" song and the tramp. A caviar seen in the gusteau pantry is branded "Nemo", the name of Marlin's son in Finding Nemo. When linguini started on the back of the TV, he didn't turn on the lights. When he was turned off, Hal cockroach from the next feature Pixar Wall-and appeared. Linguini has a soccer ball on its shelf, which is the same soccer ball of the robotic child at the beginning of Monsters, Inc. A113, which is a popular GAG running for most of the Pixar features, appears on a Tag on the ear of the hard rat. The Skinner Quote "You're Fired!" In Linguini is a reference to the Harry Tasker line at the Aziz terrorist in True Lies before the antagonist is literally fired by a hunting jet, vaporizing him together with a helicopter full of accomplices of him. Ratatouille reception criticism received critical acclamation from critics. The Rotten Tomatoes review aggregator's website reported a 96% approval rating with an average rating of 8.50 / 10 based on 251 reviews. The consent of the site acts: "Pixar still succeeds with Ratatouille, an incredibly animated film with fast pacing, memorable characters and general mood." Another Metacritic aggregation website review, which assigns a normalized rating of 100 best reviews from mainstream critics, calculated a 96 out of 100 rating based on 37 reviews. A. O. Scott of the New York TimesRatatouille "an almost impeccable piece of popular art, as well as one of the most persuasive portraits of an artist never committed to film;" echoes the character Anton Ego in the film, concluded his review with a simple "thank you" to the creators of the film. Wally Hammond of the time Out gave the film five stars out of five, saying "A test for small tots, a mild nostalgic and as a male-dominated as a modern kitchen can be, but these are mere quibbles on this delicious addition to the pantheon Pixar." Andrea Gronvall of the Chicago Reader gave the film a positive review, stating "the second collaboration of Brad Bird with Pixar is more ambitious". Owen Gleiberman from Entertainment Weekly gave the film a B, saying "Ratatouille has Pixar technical magic without, somehow, the full Pixar flavor. It's Brad Bird's brilliant dessert, not as amazing as it's just sweetly edible."Rolling Stone's Peter Travers gave the film three and a half stars out of four, saying "What makes Ratatouille such a hilarious and heard wonder is how Bird contrives lets it sneak into you. And take a lot of that score from Michael Giacchino, a perfect compliment for a delicious meal." James Berardinelli from ReelViews gave the film three out of four stars, saying "For parents looking to spend time in a theater with their children or adults who want something lighter and less testosterone-oriented than the usual summer rate, Ratatouille offers a salty main course." Christy Lemire of the Associated Press gave the film a positive review, saying "Ratatouille is free from the type of free pop-culture references that plague so many such films; tells a story, it is very much of our world, but it never goes for economic and easy gag." Justin Chang of Variety gave the film a positive review, saying "The master chefs of Pixar have mixed all the right ingredients - abundant verbal and visual wit, genius slap timing, a gallic sophistication soup - to produce a warm and irresistible concoction." Michael Phillips of the Chicago Tribune gave the film four stars out of four, saying "The film can be animated, and in great part And you've never seen a computer animated feature with this kind of visual panache and details." Newsday's Rafer Guzman gave the film three out of four stars, saying "So many movies animated by the computer are brash, strong and popping with the pop-culture comedy, but Ratatouille has the warm splendor of a favorite book. The characters are more than the sum of their parts that consume gigabytes - they feel handmade." Roger Moore from the Orlando Sentinel gave the film three out of five stars, saying "Has Pixar lost his magic recipe? Ratatouille is full ofanimated quite generic, some modest pursuits, a couple of beautiful gags, not a lot of laughs." LA Weekly Scott Foundas gave the film a positive review, saying "Bird took the raw rawOf a Kiddie AntiCropomorphic-Animal MatinÃ © T © and and whipped in a heady voice of nothing less than the principles of artistic creation. "Colin Covert of the Star Tribune gave the four-star film four-star, saying" It's not just the computer animation is vibitively three-dimensional. They are also the well rounded characters ... I define you to appoint another animated film as overflowing with superfluous beauty. "Steven Rea of Philadelphia Inquirer gave the cinema three and half stars on four, saying" with Ratatouille, bird once again not only a fantastic, witty story, but also the dazzling images. "Bill Muller of the Republic of Arizona gave the cinema four and half stars out of five, saying" as the package soup playing a key part of Ratatouille, the film is a delicious mixture of ingredients that tickles the palette and you Leave more hunger. "Disney planned to produce a wine to market Ratatouille release. The California wine institute warned them not to advertise alcohol with cartoon characters, and the plan was scrapped. Release Home Media Main article: Ratatouille (video) Ratatouille was released on DVD and Blu-ray on November 6, 2007 and was one of the most sold DVDs of 2007. The film was set to be published in 2006. However, on 7 December 2004, the date has been changed in 2007. This has happened because Disney / Pixar changed the date of release of the cars from November 4, 2005, to 9 June 2006, thus pushing the film aa In a scene, it turns out that only animals can feel talk about speaking, a case of "public filter". The irony of the fate, Remy is able to talk to Gusteau, a fruit of the Remy imagination, and is able to understand the remy. According to a particular Wiki site, the Patoto, a graphic cartoon of the 2007 Brazilian computer of Vädeo Brinquedo, is considered as a ratatouille "Rippoff". This was the latest Pixar movie to use 1995 Pixar Exclusive Walt Disney Pictures Pictures custom logo for the studio since Toy Story; Starting with the next film of Pixar Wall-and in 2008, any Pixar movie that followed the Walt Disney 2006 logo. This was the latest version of reading the film to be narrated by Roy Dorrizio. This is the first original Pixar film from a bug's life in 1998 and the first Pixar post-disney purchase film to be released in the summer. This is the first Pixar film to be a new image of independent movement with a more recent animation after Pixar was purchased by Disney. Remy, which is called "small chef", and the dish presented in the film is also present in the Kingdom Hearts III video game. In 2020, a Tiktok user created a free song in Remy, the main character of the film. In the end, other Tiktok users started remixing the song, as well as the choreography, the design set and new songs to create a complete musical. Ratatouille The musical was transmitted in streaming on 1 January 2021. The evaluation of the star depicted in the film is a bit of an artistic license. In France, restaurants are classified by the Michelin Guide, which uses a three-star ranking. However, the American producers apparently decided to explain that the system would be counterproductive for history, and thus used the five-star ranking more familiar, the best associated internationally associated with the quality classification of the hotels. So actually, Gusteau's three-star ranking would mean that he was at the top highest of eating establishments. With an 111-minute runtime Ratatouille is the 4th minute pixar animated film plus Incredibles 2 to 118 minutes, car at 117 minutes and incredible at 115 minutes. External links Links
