Would of could of should of

TIP SheetWOULD, SHOULD, COULD Would, should and could are three auxiliary verbs that can be defined as past tenses of will, shall, and can; however, you may learn more from seeing sentences using these auxiliaries than from definitions. Examples of usage follow. Would Technically, would is the past tense of will, but it is an auxiliary verb that has many uses, some of which even express the present tense. It can be used in the following ways: Would you like some coleslaw? = Do you want some coleslaw?Would you turn in your assignment now? = Please turn in your assignment now. With who, what, when, where, why, how: How would the neighbors react?What would you do if I sang out of tune?In the two sentences above, would means about the same thing as will. I would like more coleslaw, please. = I want more coleslaw, please.I would like you to sit down now. = I want you to sit down now. To show a different response if the past had been different: I would have helped you if I had known you were stranded.(I didn't know that you were stranded. This "not knowing" occurred before my not helping you.) John would've missed the trail if Mary hadn't waited for him at the stream.(First Mary waited for him. If her response had been to not wait, then next John would have been on the wrong trail.) To tone down strong, controversial statements-not recommended in formal essays: I would have to say that you're acting a bit immature.Here would has a similar meaning to do but less emphatic. To explain an outcome to a hypothetical situation: Should I win a million dollars, I would fix up my house.Think of should as if, and would as will. To show habitual past action: Helen would sob whenever John would leave home.Think of would as did. To show repetitive past action: For a moment the plane would be airborne, then it would bump back down along the hard earth.(The plane was in the air and then back on the ground several times.) To show preference between two choices, used with rather or sooner: I would sooner die than face them. = I prefer death in place of facing them.I would rather handwrite than type. = I prefer handwriting instead in typing. However, the second choice may by implied but not stated: I would rather die.Implied is that I would rather die than...do whatever it is that the context has provided as an alternative to dying. Those people would allow gambling. = Those people want to allow gambling.Would it were so. = I wish it were so. (Infrequently used)We wish that he would go. = We want him to go. To show intention or plan: She said she would come. = She said she was planning to come. I would put off the test if I could.This means my choice is to delay taking the test, but I do not have the ability to delay taking it. The answer would seem to be correct. = The answer is probably correct. To show future likelihoods relative to past action: He calculated that he would get to the camp around 6 p.m. The men would have dinner ready for him.The first sentence means he believed his camp arrival time was going to be about 6:00 p.m. The "calculating" (or believing) happened in the past, yet the arrival is going to occur later. The second sentence predicts that, at that future time, dinner will be ready for him. Strange but true: Notice how changing have to had can change the way would works: Would you had changed your mind. = I wish you had changed your mind.Would you have changed your mind. = If circumstances had been different, is it possible that you might have changed your mind? ShouldTechnically, should is the past tense of shall, but it is an auxiliary verb with a few uses, not all of which are in the past tense, namely, the following: Should you have erased the disk? = Were you supposed to have erased it?Should I turn in my assignment now? = Am I supposed to turn in my assignment now?Here, should means about the same thing as ought. You should floss and brush your teeth after every meal.Think of should as supposed to, as in the previous example, but here to make a persuasive statement. To show a possible future event: If I should find your coat, I will be sure to call you.Think of should as do; furthermore, should could be left out of the above sentence, leaving, "If I find your coat, I will be sure to call you." Alternately, if could be left out of the sentence: "Should I find your coat, I will be sure to call you." To express a hypothetical situation: Should you wish to do so, you may have hot tea and biscuits. = If you wish to do so, you may have hot tea and biscuits. To express what is likely: With an early start, they should be here by noon.Think of should as ought to or probably will. To politely express a request or direct statement: I should like to go home now. = I want to go home now.I should think that a healthy forest program is essential to any presidential victory.= I think that a healthy forest program is essential to any presidential victory. CouldTechnically, could is the past tense of can, but it is an auxiliary verb with a few uses, not all of which are in the past tense, namely the following: As the past tense of can: In those days, all the people could build houses. = In those days, all the people had the ability to build houses. Could you have erased the disk? = Is it possible that you erased the disk?Could I leave now? = May I leave now; am I allowed to leave now? You could study harder than you do. = You have the potential to study harder than you do.He knew the sunset could be spectacular. = He knew that the sunset was sometimes spectacular. To express tentativeness or politeness: I could be wrong. = I may be wrong.Could you come over here, please? = Please come here. In conclusion, you could use these three auxiliaries if you would, and you should! Write a sample sentence for each possible usage of could, would, and should; then ask any Reading/Writing or English tutor for further assistance. Could have, should have, would have là cách giả định về sự việc ở quá khứ.A. Could have + past participle1: Could have + past participle: đây là cách nói bạn thừa khả năng để làm việc gì đó nhưng bạn không làm / không thực hiện: ví dụ: trong cuộc tán gẫu về trận đấu bóng đá đêm qua. bạn có thể nói tôi có thể thức xem nhưng lại đi ngủ sớm. I could have stayed up late to watch that game (the football game), but I decided to go to bed early. Tôi có thể thức khuya hơn để xem trận đấu bóng đó, nhưng tôi quyết định đi ngủ sớm They could have won the race, but they didn't try hard enough. Julie could have bought the book, but she borrowed it from the library instead. He could have studied harder, but he was too lazy and that's why he failed the exam.Couldn't have + past participle cách dùng này ngược lại với cách dùng trên nhé. Khi dùng câu này bạn sẽ cho người đọc, người nghe biết rằng, tôi không thể làm được gì mặc dù tôi rất muốn làm điều đó. I couldn't have arrived any earlier. There was a terrible traffic jam (= Bạn bị kẹt xe, bạn không thể đến sớm hơn). He couldn't have passed the exam, even if he had studied harder. It's a really, really difficult exam.2: Chúng ta cũng có thể dùng could have + past participle để đoán về sự việc đã xảy ra ở quá khứ. trong trường hợp này chúng ta không thể biết rằng điều chúng ta nói có đúng hay không. chỉ là đưa ra quan điểm cá nhân.Ví dụ: Bạn tổ chức tiệc 6 giờ tối ngày Chủ nhật mời bạn bè đến chung vui. Đến giờ khai tiệc mà John chưa đến. bạn hỏi: Why is John late? và sẽ có các câu trả lời như sau: He could have got stuck in traffic. Anh ấy có thể bị kẹt xe He could have forgotten that we were meeting today. Anh ấy có thể quên He could have overslept. Anh ấy có thể ngủ quênTrường hợp này chúng ta có thể dùng might have + past participle mà không khác về ý nghĩa: He might have got stuck in traffic. He might have forgotten that we were meeting today. He might have got stuck in traffic.B. Should have + past participle1: Should have + past participle Khi bạn muốn khuyên ai đó nên làm một việc gì ở quá khứ hoặc bạn tự nói với mình rằng mình hối hận về những việc mình đã làm hoặc chưa làm.Shouldn't have + past participle Cấu trúc này có nghĩa đó không phải là ý hay nhưng dẫu sao thì bạn đã thực hiện rồi. I should have studied harder! (= Tôi không chăm chỉ học và rồi tôi bị trượt kỳ thi. bây giờ tôi hối hận về điều đó.) I should have gone to bed early (= TÔi không đi ngủ sớm nên giờ tôi bị mệt). I shouldn't have eaten so much cake! (= Tôi đã ăn quá nhiều bánh và giờ đây tôi bị mệt) You should have called me when you arrived (= Lẽ ra em nên gọi cho anh khi em đến nơi nhưng em không làm, điều này làm anh lo lắng). John should have left early, then he wouldn't have missed the plane (= Nhưng anh chàng này không khởi hành sớm nên bị nhỡ tàu).2: Cách dùng khác của should have + past participle: Ví dụ, bạn hẹn bạn của mình 7 giờ có mặt tại quán cà phê, nhà của người bạn đó cách quán cà phê khoảng 15 phút, đúng 6h45 người bạn đó nhắn tin là đã bắt đầu đi. đến 7h, tại quán cà phê, bạn không thấy người bạn đó đên, trong điều kiện bình thường thì người bạn đó phải đến nơi rồi, bạn có thể dùng should have + past participle + by now để thay thế cho thì hiện tại hoàn thành hoặc thì quá khứ đơn. His plane should have arrived by now (= if everything is fine, the plane has arrived). John should have finished work by now (= if everything is normal, John has finished work).C. Would have + past participle1: Sử dụng Would have + past participle như là một phần của câu điều kiện loại 3. If I had had enough money, I would have bought a car (Nhưng thực tế tôi không có đủ tiền, và tôi cũng không mua ô tô).2: Chúng ta cũng có thể dùng would have + past participle để nói về những điều bạn muốn làm nhưng bạn không làm. Cách dùng này rất giống với câu điều kiện loại 3 nhưng ta không cần mệnh đề if đi kèm. I would have gone to the party, but I was really busy. (= Tôi muốn đên dự tiệc nhưng tôi bận -> Câu này có thể viết lại bằng câu điều kiện loại 3 như sau: If I hadn't been so busy, I would have gone to the party.) I would have called you, but I didn't know your number. (= Tôi muốn gọi cho bạn nhưng tôi không biết số, vì thế tôi không gọi) A: Nobody volunteered to help us with the fair B: I would have helped you. I didn't know you needed help. (= Câu này có thể viết lại bằng câu điều kiện như sau: If I had known that you needed help, I would have helped you.)
