Hulu’s live TV streaming service is adding 14 ViacomCBS networks to its channel lineup. ViacomCBS announced the agreement with Hulu in a January 4 news release. Here are the networks that will soon be added to the Hulu + Live TV service: BET Comedy Central MTV Nickelodeon Paramount Network VH1 CMT Nick Jr. TV Land BET Her MTV2 NickToons TeenNick MTV Classic In addition, Hulu Live will continue to carry CBS broadcast stations, CBS Sports Network, Pop TV, Smithsonian Channel and The CW. Plus, Showtime will still be offered as a premium service. As of this writing, the channels aren’t available yet, and Hulu did not provide me with an exact date when they will be. Hulu Live subscribers recently endured another price hike. The service increased its starting price from $55 to $65 in December 2020. When the price hike was announced, Hulu did not indicate that these ViacomCBS networks would be added. Once these channels are added, Hulu + Live TV’s channel lineup will look more like what you get with YouTube TV. However, YouTube TV offers a better DVR and an additional stream with its base plan. Using Channel Master’s existing DVR+ box, the demo listed what’s on at sites like Vevo, CBSN, and Animal Planet Live, which offer round-the-clock streaming video through the Web.It’s not a major departure for Channel Master, whose $249 DVR+ already gives cord-cutters a channel guide and recording options for over-the-air broadcasts. The new feature merely pads out the number of available channels by dipping into live online video sources. (It won’t, however, be able to record those online channels for later viewing.)But while Channel Master says it will offer this “LinearTV” feature to DVR+ users early this year, some of the logistics remain murky. The company is still figuring out which online sources to put in the guide, and it’s unclear whether major content providers like Animal Planet and BBC would be okay with Channel Master aggregating and repackaging their video streams without permission. (Representatives cautioned that the channels on display at CES were for demonstration purposes only, and not necessarily indicative of the final product.) It’ll be interesting to see how the final product differs when it launches in the coming months.Why this matters: One of the big drawbacks with ditching cable is the difficulty in finding live, linear programming. Services like Netflix make you hand-pick exactly what to watch next, which is a hassle when you just want to turn something on and tune out. While there are plenty of live video sources online, they can be hard to find and aren’t always available on devices like Roku and Apple TV. Some question marks with LinearTV remain, but Channel Master could have a killer app for cord-cutters on its hands if it can pull it off. The Roku Live TV Guide is the latest salvo in the free side of the big streaming war. Introduced today, Roku Live TV Guide is a new way for audiences to find free TV channels (both live and not) without installing a single app.There are more than 100 channels in the Roku Live TV Guide, and those channels are referred to as live and linear, similar to what you find in Pluto TV. So, when Roku calls it a Live TV Guide, know that some of its programming is live, and other content is not. Linear in this case means aired on a schedule.The Live TV Guide has all the visual trappings of the TV guide that traditional TV offers, letting you scroll horizontally to navigate time slots and vertically to scroll through channels.Roku has also revealed how much it's grown The Roku Channel's free and premium streaming content library, which has grown from 200 or so titles to 100,000, with 20,000 kids and family selections.Roku Live TV Guide began appearing in the Roku Channel app on June 1. Roku's releasing Live TV Guide in staggered waves, like when Instagram rolls out a new feature to select groups of users over a span of months. (Image credit: Roku)The launch of Roku Live TV Guide happens as Roku launches the 100-plus live and/or linear 'channels' that will comprise the service. Those channels are broken into 6 different groups:News: ABC News Live, Black News Channel, Cheddar, Newsy, Now This, Reuters, USA Today, Yahoo Finance, WeatherNationMovies and TV: Crime360, FilmRise Action, FilmRise Classic TV, FilmRise Family, FilmRise Free Movies, Gravitas Movies, Redbox Free Movies, Voyager DocumentariesSports: ACC Digital Network, Adventure Sports Network, bein sports xtra, Edge Sport, Fubo Sports Network, Outside TVEntertainment: BET Pluto, CMT Pluto, Comedy Central Pluto, Deal or No Deal, Game Show Central, MTV Pluto Kids: Ameba, battery pop, Kidz Bop, Rainbow Ruby, Teletubbies, Kid Gamer TV, pocket watch, Toon Goggles, Toon Goggles Jr.Home design and lifestyle: Bon Appétit, The Bob Ross Channel, Condé Nast Traveler, Glamour, GQ, Food52, Vanity Fair, This Old House, VogueSpanish language: AFV en Español, américatevé, Latido Music, Love Nature en Español, Of course, these channels are ad-driven, which is how they're free.Roku Live TV Guide design and interfaceTo move back from live content to the Roku Live TV Guide and the actual channels, users can press left on the Roku remote. In the guide window, pressing left again lets you jump to the list of channels you've viewed most recently. That's important, because while the grid of channels is organized by category, nobody wants to click through 100 channels to find the right one. The Star/Asterisk button lets you view channels by grouped lists. Organized by chronological order, Roku Live TV Guide shows the next 12 hours of programming, so you can see what's coming up later on. That being said, there is no search feature, something that we hope Roku figures out in the coming months. US Open start time, scheduleThe 2020 US Open is airing through Sunday, September 13. The daily start time is at 12 p.m. Full schedule, channel info below.It's game, set, match when you watch the 2020 U.S. Open live stream. The two-week tournament is almost over and has featured some incredible matches, including a tough loss by Serena Williams, who missed out again on tying Margaret Court’s record of 24 Grand Slam titles. But the Naomi Osaka vs Victoria Azarenka live stream of the U.S. Open women's final is still a must-watch match.On the men's side, it's Dominic Thiem vs Alexander Zverev in the men's final, which takes place on Sunday.This year's U.S. Open also saw the stunning default of the men's No. 1 seed Novak Djokovic after he hit a tennis ball and accidentally hit a line judge. He was disqualified for recklessly hitting the ball. The 2020 U.S. Open is only the second major to take place this year, since the Australian Open in February. The French Open was delayed and Wimbledon was canceled due to the coronavirus pandemic.This year's tournament looks very different from past events at Flushing Meadows' Billie Jean King National Tennis Center. When players arrived at the bubble, they had to take two coronavirus tests within 48 hours.The entire event is socially distanced. The only spectators are members of the players' teams. The automated line judging system called Hawk Eye is used on all courts except Arthur Ashe Stadium and Louis Armstrong Stadium. There will be a limited number of ball kids (and they're not even kids, they're adults over 18). And players must retrieve their own towels to wipe off sweat. Here's everything you need to watch the 2020 U.S. Open live stream. How to watch 2020 US Open live stream with a VPNIf you're away from home and can't watch the 2020 US Open live stream from where you are, you can still get the livestreams with a virtual private network, or VPN. A VPN makes it so that you can appear to be surfing the web from your home town, so you can access the same streaming services you already paid for. Not sure which VPN is right for you? We've tested many different services and our pick for the best VPN overall is ExpressVPN. It offers superb speeds and excellent customer service. But you've got other VPN options as well. On the men's side, neither Roger Federer nor Rafael Nadal entered the tournament. Federer is recovering from knee surgery, while Rafa cited coronavirus travel concerns.That left No. 1 seed Novak Djokovic the clear favorite to win his 18th Grand Slam. However, while trailing in his round of 16 match against Pablo Carreno Busta, a frustrated Djokovic smacked the ball behind him. It appeared to hit a line judge in the throat. He was defaulted by the umpire and tournament officials. Djokovic later apologized to the line judge on Instagram.With Djokovic out, one of the remaining men's players will win the first Grand Slam tournament of his career.On the women's side, the top two players Ashleigh Barty and No. 2 Simona Halep chose not to attend the U.S. Open. Serena Williams attempted once again to tie Margaret Court’s record of 24 Grand Slam titles, but fell to Victoria Azarenka. 2020 US Open scheduleHere's the schedule for the 2020 U.S. Open.
