Who can defeat darth bane

@decaf_wizardWell I didn't really expect the wall of text, but your answer is Banite scaling? I guess I'm a more feats kinda guy because aside from not getting murderd by Yoda he really doesn't have many force feats that Bane couldn't matchNot getting murdered by Yoda is a great feat, because Yoda would end Bane in a single swing of his lightsaber. In other words, Yoda would blitzstomp Bane. To say that the guy who is a near equal of Sidious and his exact equal when it comes to sabers is going to take anything more than that to end Bane means you haven't really understood what the Rule of Two has accomplished.Well I would be willing to bet based on feats that Yoda couldn't Insta stomp Bane in the force either. And Yoda never really tried to dominate Dooku in the force. Sabers is another matter but at least Bane is competent enough that he wouldn't be insta stompedExcept, Sidious, who is Yoda's near equal in everything, would atomize Bane in a thought. So would Yoda. You need to come out of the "shown feats only" approach and look at how powerful these characters really are. Yoda has scaling from Sidious, who has access to the full Banite scaling.I don't think the point came across. The whole point is that Sidious is infinitely more powerful than Bane. That is the purpose of the Rule of Two, and going by Banite scaling and Sidious's own feats, the purpose is more than accomplished. If Dooku is strong enough to give Yoda a decent fight in sabers and strong enough to not get instantly stomped in the force by him, then it is more than sufficient to indicate that there is no comparison between him and Bane.And Yoda has feats like ragdolling 2 400*300 m ships at the same time and then doing it again, ragdolling thousands of droids etc, feats that make Bane's look laughable. Despite the PT era being much more modest than Drew Karpyshyn when it comes to feats of characters involved.Well except for a comparison of feats. So there is that, which people seem to forget aboutWhich is utterly meaningless here, because the end of the Banite line is so far above the beginning of it, that it is not even funny and it is canonically meant to be so. Whatever feats Bane has, multiply them by high orders of magnitude, and you have Sidious. That Sidious is so powerful, is meant to be, by scaling.Also comparing Bane to Sidious is completely laughable not because of Banite scaling but of how absurdly powerful in the force he is. Its like saying that if Anakin became a Sith at his full potential it would be because of Banite scalingWhich Sidious became by Banite scaling. Each successive Sith Lord has a greater potential than the last one. It is how Sith Masters choose their apprentices. Your point makes no sense. Anakin had a greater potential than Sidious, so he was chosen as the next in line, or the "true" apprentice. There is no discrepancy here.Your making it sound like Sids wouldn't dumpster Dooku in short order too. For example trashing three renowned Jedi masters with easy, essentially oneshotting them and (depending on your interpretation of this fight) holding his own in lightsabers with an extremely powered up Mace Windu who before that was already Dooku's rough equal. He beat the living crap out of what was essentially TPM Maul with a freaking training lightsaber. Foddrizing ROTJ Luke (who would give Dooku good fight by all accounts) with lightning. Overwhelming Yoda with Force Lightning. All these feats show he is WAY out of Dooku's league. Dooku was never trained to be a successor. Only a pawn. He didn't live up to the Banite scaling of surpassing his master nor could he have.First off, he doesn't need to have access to the full Banite scaling. If he did, then I would consider even the thought of a comparison between him and Bane as utter spite. But he does have access to Banite resources and knowledge beyond Bane's wildest imaginations. For more than a decade he spent learning this knowledge and then some. Even if he doesn't have access to full Banite knowledge, it is still leagues beyond Bane's collection. And knowledge leads to power.Second, he didn't overwhelm Yoda with force lightning. They were evenly matched. ROTJ Luke doesn't even come close to Dooku(never mind the fact that ROTJ Sidious is much more powerful than ROTS Sidious). There was no huge amp for Mace, but his Vaapad, and his natural potential, quite apart from the fact that Mace has been compared to Yoda himself countless times, and the fact that TPM Mace is the second most powerful Jedi to ever exist in history. And you are making it sound as though Dooku wouldn't fodderize them too.None of these feats or lack thereof from Dooku makes Sidious stomp him so badly. If Yoda couldn't, then Sidious won't. Not to mention, it was Yoda who disarmed Sidious in their fight in the senate. Force is a different matter, and yes, Yoda could have dominated him, but not so effortlessly, otherwise he would have. It was the quickest way to end the war. Yoda knew he would have to be aggressive and he would be pushed to his limits if he wanted to dominate Dooku in the force(which anyways isn't the way of the Jedi, they almost always resort to the lightsaber unless they outclass their opponent laughably, which is not the case here at all), so he resorted to the lightsaber. He couldn't stomp Dooku in that area as well, and far from it, Dooku actually gave him a decent fight.I don't want to get into a feats war, so let's make it simple: Yoda cannot instastomp Dooku in the force(which is enough to launch Dooku way above Bane). In sabers, they are comparable enough. Which is more than enough to ensure that a comparison between Dooku and Bane is meaningless. Because if Yoda can disarm Sidious in their fight, Sidious who would "not" take more than a single strike to end Bane, and Dooku can give Yoda a decent fight, then I don't need to elaborate any further.Read this post: is not directly on this topic, but it addresses the Bane era, and the "feats only approach" well.And? Even with shown feats, Dooku still stomps Bane. In fact, pure feats and simple scaling have Obi Wan well above Bane, so I am confused as to how Dooku vs Bane is even a thing.Page 2@kbroskywalker: Ha ha ha.@mohhsen said:no he isn't he is weakerLOL. Give me feats or accolades for Mundi that surpass the following:First, some accolades:Bane is a mountain of muscle.By the time Hurst died, the tall, skinny teenager they loved to bully had become a mountain of muscle with heavy hands and a fierce temper.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionMiners in Apatros were all big, but Bane (Dessel/Des) was the biggest one.Whoever worked the mines on Apatros got big-and Des just happened to become the biggest of them all.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionBane was a mountain of a man.An enormous mountain of a man stood in the doorway, blocking the light streaming in from outside.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionNow, for feats. Note that the next feats are before Bane even learns he's Force sensitive- thus, he does not have the Force to augment his physical ability, like Mundi always does.Bane (Dessel) stops a punch from Gerd, another miner, and throws him over his head.Gerd charged forward, swinging his right fist in a vicious uppercut. Des reached out and caught the punch with the open palm of his left hand, absorbing the force of the blow.His right hand snapped forward and grabbed the underside of Gerd's right wrist; as he pulled the older man forward, Des ducked down and turned, driving his shoulder into Gerd's chest. Using his opponent's own momentum against him, Des straightened up and yanked hard on Gerd's wrist, flipping him up and over so that he crashed to the ground on his back.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionBane (Dessel) bites off Gerd's finger.This time he turned his head in the opposite direction, exposing his face to the incoming blow-and opening his mouth. He bit down hard, his timing perfect, and his teeth sank deep into the dirty flesh of Gerd's probing thumb.Gerd screamed as Des clamped his jaw shut, severing the tendons and striking bone. He wondered if he could bite clean through and then-as if the very thought made it happen-he severed Gerd's thumb.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionKnocked out Lieutenant Ulabore with a single punch.He hesitated for only a second before slamming his fist into his lieutenant's chin, knocking him cold.There was stunned silence from the rest of the troops as Ulabore slumped to the ground.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionNow, Force-augmented feats for Bane- this means Bane could easily surpass those feats.As a mere apprentice, he knocks down Fohragh with a power blow.Fohargh parried the attack but was knocked to the ground.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionBane's lightsaber blows shattered bones. He was still an apprentice.In the blink of an eye he knocked the saber from Sirak's hand, sliced down to shatter his forearm, then spun through and brought his saber crashing into his opponent's lower leg. It splintered under the impact and Sirak screamed as a shard of gleaming white bone sliced through muscle, sinew, and finally skin.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionCrushed a man's head under his foot, while considerably pre-prime.Lifting his boot free of the clutching hand, Bane answered, "My name is Darth Bane." There was a sickening crunch as his boot slammed down, grinding the man's skull into the rocks propping him up. His body convulsed once then lay still.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionTore a durasteel door off its hinges.Letting the Force flow through him, he clipped his lightsaber and crouched down to grip the handle with both hands. Bracing his massive shoulders, he wrenched the metal hatch open, yanking it off its hinges and tossing it aside.Darth Bane: Dynasty of EvilCrushed the windpipe of a man with his foot+broke the neck of another with his hand.He brought his boot down on the throat of his nearest opponent, crushing his windpipe. He wrapped his muscular forearm around the next man's neck from behind in a choke hold, braced his other palm against his chin, and wrenched his head to the side, breaking his neck.Darth Bane: Dynasty of EvilTore through two durasteel doors.Another locked durasteel door blocked the only exit. Bane tossed the blaster aside and tore the door off its hinges. Up above, someone triggered the alarm, and a deafening klaxon began to blare.Beyond the door was a narrow staircase, similarly barricaded at the top. The Dark Lord charged up the steps and threw himself shoulder-first into the door at the top. It burst open from the impact, sending him tumbling into the room beyond.Darth Bane: Dynasty of EvilBane's blows staggered Darth Zannah.He opened with a series of two-handed overhead chops, using his great height to bring his blade hacking down at her from above. She easily blocked each blow, but the momentum of the crushing impact caused her to stagger back, throwing her off balance.Darth Bane: Dynasty of EvilAnd given that Bane was considered one of the most powerful Sith Lords ever, his Force Augmentation is really powerful.Mundi has nothing on this.no they are about as fastReally? Give me feats for Mundi that equal these:Note that the following feats were without Force Augmentation.Sniped eight men in three seconds:He acted on instinct, moving too quickly to let his conscious thoughts get in the way. He didn't even see the first soldier drop; the scope was already moving to his next target. The second gunner had just enough time to open his eyes wide in surprise before Des fired and moved on to the third. But she'd seen the first gunner go down and had already dropped down behind the armored walls of the gunship's flatbed for cover.Des resisted the impulse to fire wildly and moved the scope in a tight circle, looking in vain for a clean shot. The sound of blasterfire exploded in the night, along with shouts and pounding feet as the Gloom Walkers burst from their cover and rushed the outpost. They'd followed their orders to the letter, charging out at the sound of the first shot. Des knew he had only a few seconds before the turrets opened up on them and turned the clearing into a killing field, but he couldn't see the shot to take out the third gunner.He whipped the rifle around in desperation, looking for a new target on the roof. He set his sights on a soldier crouched down low beside a small canister. The soldier wasn't moving, and he'd covered his face with his hands as if shielding his vision. The blast from Des's weapon hit him square in the chest just as the device at the soldier's feet detonated."Flash canister!" Lucia screamed, but her warning came too late. The view through the scope vanished in a brilliant white flare, temporarily blinding Des.But with his vision gone, he could suddenly see everything clearly. He knew the position of every soldier even as they all scrambled for cover; he could track exactly where they were and where they were going.The soldier in the third turret was training the cannons on the incoming wave of troopers. In the excitement she'd popped her head up just slightly above the walls of the flatbed, leaving the smallest of targets exposed. Des took her with a single shot, the bolt going in cleanly through one ear hole on her helmet and out the other.It was as if time had slowed down. Moving with a calm and deadly precision, he trained his rifle on the next target, taking her through the heart; barely a moment later he got the soldier beside her right between his cold blue eyes. Des took one man in the back as he ran for the nearest gunship. Another was halfway up one of the flatbed's ladders when a bolt sliced through his thigh, knocking him off balance. He fell from the ladder, and Des put another shot through his chest before he hit the ground.It had taken less than three seconds to wipe out eight of the nine soldiers. The last one made a run for the edge, hoping to escape by diving off the roof on the far side of the building. Des let him run. He could feel the terror coming in waves off his doomed prey; he savored it for as long as he could. The soldier leapt from the rooftop and seemed to hang in midair for a second; Des fired his last three shots into his body, draining the weapon's power cell.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionMoved in a blur:His muscles moved instinctively, exploding into action. There was a hiss as the downstroke of his blade carved through the air in the first move, a blur of motion ... but far too slow.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionNow, Bane has Augmentation. Moves faster than all the Sith apprentices in the room can see. Bane is just an apprentice here.For an instant none of the spectators was even aware of what had happened; it took their minds a moment to catch up and register the blur of action that had occurred so much quicker than their eyes could see.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionAttacks six times in the span of two heartbeats (that's, like, 1.6 seconds). Six attacks in 1.6 seonds is really fast. Bane was considerably pre-prime.Kas'im lunged in again, and the room was filled with the hiss and hum of lightsabers striking each other half a dozen times in the space of two heartbeats.Darth Bane: Path of DestructionDeflects every single drop of rain coming at him in a thunderstorm for ten minutes.A shadow passed over one of the twin moons; a dark cloud heavy with the threat of a fierce storm. Bane paused, briefly considering cutting his ritual short to avoid the impending downpour. But his muscles were warm now, and the blood was pumping furiously through his veins. The minor aches and pains were gone, banished by the adrenaline rush of intense physical training. Now was no time to quit.Feeling a blast of cold wind blow in, he crouched low and opened himself up to the Force, letting it flow through him. Drawing on it to extend his awareness out to encompass each individual bead of rain as it fell from the sky, he resolved not to let a single drop touch his exposed flesh.He could sense the power of the dark side building inside him. It began, as it always did, with a faint spark, a tiny flicker of light and heat. Muscles tense and coiled in anticipation, he fed the spark, fueling it with his own passion, letting his anger and fury transform the flame into an inferno waiting to be unleashed.As the first fat drops splattered onto the patio stones around him, Bane exploded into action. Abandoning the overpowering style of Djem So, he shifted to the quicker sequences of Soresu, his lightsaber tracing tight circles above his head in a series of movements designed to intercept enemy blaster bolts.The wind rose to a howling gale, and the scattered drops quickly became a downpour. His body and mind united as one, he channeled the infinite power of the Force against the driving rain. Tiny clouds of hissing steam formed as his blade picked off the descending drops while Bane twisted, twirled, and contorted his body to evade those few that managed to slip through his defenses.For the next ten minutes he battled the pelting storm, reveling in the power of the dark side. And then, as suddenly as it had begun, the tempest was gone, the dark cloud scurrying away on the breeze. Breathing hard, Bane extinguished his lightsaber. His skin was sheened in sweat, but not a single drop of rain had touched his bare flesh.Darth Bane: Dynasty of EvilBane moved as a blur to Zannah.The next few seconds were a blur as Zannah relied purely on instincts honed over twenty years to parry the wave of blows, miraculously keeping him from landing a lethal strike.Darth Bane: Dynasty of EvilBane's stronger and faster than Mundi.slightly more powerfulThe "one of the most powerful Sith ever" accolade puts Mundi out of his game. I will post power feats tomorrow, because time is not a luxury I have that much of today.YESHow? Bane's vastly more powerful, more skilled, stronger and faster.which was true for his timeThe first quote refers to all time, and the second one too given how it talks about Revan, who was alive roughly 3000 years before Bane.see he is important not necessarily powerfulThat quote also refers to power.you really aren't suggesting he is as powerful as SidiousOf course not. Sidious is THE best. But imagine it like this:Sith Lord ranking:1. SidiousBane's in one of the top positions (not top 5, but still).The quote says ONE OF, not THE.SEE you are over estimating himNope.also I never mentioned aotc kenobiI know. Read the OP, this entire thread and this:Padawan Anakin vs DoE BaneYou'll understand. As for the thread...@banthabot said:This thread needs locked
