"Jealous of the Angels" is a 2012 American music music song and Christian music singer-songwriter Jenn Bostic. It was written and composed of Jenn Bostic with Barrett Yeretsian, Zachary Runquist and Jimmy Fortune. It appeared for the first time on the Change feature, [1] and then in him album of him, Jealous. The album was published in the United Kingdom and in Ireland in September 2012, and the song "Jealous of the Angels" was published as a single debut in the United Kingdom on 17 December 2012. [2] [3] The song He reached the number one of the singing rankings of the United Kingdom. He reached the number one on the UK iTunes Music Charts. The song won five Bostic Awards to 2012 Independent Country Music Association Awards; For the absolute winner, for Best Female Country Artist, Best Musician, Best Songwriter and for Country Music Song of the Year. [4] Context The song is inspired by Father James Regan Bostic, [5] and is a tribute to him. James Bostic was a musician, killed in a car accident when Jenn was ten years old, an event that had a huge impact on Bostic's decision to become a musician. "The first time I sat down on the floor after the accident, I closed my eyes and honestly I heard my father next to me. I spilled my heart in those first songs. The only way to connect with him He was when I played music. I still feel so. " [4] Popolarity and fame "Jealous of the angels" â € "A song inspired by his father â €" became popular in the UK after it was interpreted by the Issuer Simon Bates on his Simon Bates at the Breakfast Show on Smooth Radio as part Of the Our Tune Filament on May 14, 2012, which had characterized a history of loss. [6] [7] The song was quickly collected between the top 10 of the most played station for the week, and continued to receive over two million views on YouTube. [4] He was also collected by other Radio Networks of the United Kingdom, including BBC Radio 2, where Terry Wogan presented his Sunday morning Wogan Shows Weekend. [8] [9] It was also added to the BBC Playlist Radio 1. [10] Music Video Bostic has published a sentimental music video of the song on her youtube channel. Show Bostic singing and sounds only on him. Also show the browsing the family photo album and memorabilia and then writing a letter to her dead father. The video ends with her visit to her father’s grave and putting flowers and the letter addressed to “Dad” with the final stroke of the tombstone which reads: “BOSTIC, JAMES REGAN, REGAN, 18, 1940 - 16 February 1996 ". [11] Covers The song was the subject of a series of covers including that of the Celtic singer and Donna Taggart musician in 2014 accompanied by a musical video [12] showed it Live at The Late Late Show on Irish television RTÃ ‰ One in October 2016 and during the Irish Post Country Music Awards in September 2018. The song was also covered by the British-Irish Country singer Nathan Carter who included his Version of the song In his 2017 Livin 'The Dream album [13] In 2018 Katherine Jenkins included a version of his album Guiding Light published November 30, 2018.
