In this c projects source code series we are going to create a simple Snake game with C Language. It is also a c console-based application, which is designed simply without using graphics. Snake Game Project is built for entertainment purposes like the Pacman game. The user gets a realistic feeling of playing the mobile snake game through this application. The various coordinates in the screen have the food for the snake to eat, and when the snake eats food, it gains length by one element. The player gets their score increased according to the food that the snake consumes. Three lives are given for the player, and when it is over the game will be terminated automatically Snake Game images The complete code for Snake Game with c Language //-PROGRAMMING MADE SIMPLE #include #include #include #include #include #include #include #include #include #define UP 72 #define DOWN 80 #define LEFT 75 #define RIGHT 77 int length; int bend_no; int len; char key; void record(); void load(); int life; void Delay(long double); void Move(); void Food(); int Score(); void Print(); void gotoxy(int x, int y); void GotoXY(int x,int y); void Bend(); void Boarder(); void Down(); void Left(); void Up(); void Right(); void ExitGame(); int Scoreonly(); struct coordinate { int x; int y; int direction; }; typedef struct coordinate coordinate; coordinate head, bend[500],food,body[30]; int main() { char key; Print(); system("cls"); load(); length=5; head.x=25; head.y=20; head.direction=RIGHT; Boarder(); Food(); //to generate food coordinates initially life=3; //number of extra lives bend[0]=head; Move(); //initialing initial bend coordinate return 0; } void Move() { int a,i; do { Food(); fflush(stdin); len=0; for(i=0; i YOu can pause the game in its middle by pressing any key.
