Lots of people grew up with that character, so they have certain expectations. Some expressed skepticism, as they had done during the casting process, about its conflation of Arab and Middle Eastern culture and "lack of specificity and care."[123] in a review in 7iber, Lamees Assaf observed that "the people and the setting looked more like India than a city in the Middle East." She also critiqued gendered and orientalist stereotypes as reified by the film, writing that "[i]n the eyes of Disney and Hollywood, the stereotypical image of the Arab girl– the belly dancer with a small waist and long hair– and the dark-skinned, jealous, and chivalrous Arab man defending and protecting his women from harm's way, is much more attractive than actual Arabs, who are truly boring in reality."[29] The 1992 animated version received related critiques about the racialization and othering of its characters and script.[124] Accolades, awards and nominations Award Date of ceremony Category Recipient(s) Result Ref(s) Teen Choice Awards August 11, 2019 Choice Movie – Sci-Fi/Fantasy Aladdin Won [125] Choice Sci-Fi/Fantasy Movie Actor Will Smith Won Mena Massoud Nominated Choice Sci-Fi/Fantasy Movie Actress Naomi Scott Won Choice Movie Villain Marwan Kenzari Nominated Choice Song From A Movie "A Whole New World" (End Title) Won Saturn Awards September 13, 2019 Best Fantasy Film Aladdin Nominated [126] Best Supporting Actor Will Smith Nominated Best Supporting Actress Naomi Scott Nominated Best Director Guy Ritchie Nominated Best Production Design Gemma Jackson Nominated Best Editing James Herbert Nominated Best Music Alan Menken Nominated Best Costume Design Michael Wilkinson Won Best Special Effects Aladdin Nominated People's Choice Awards November 10, 2019 The Family Movie of 2019 Aladdin Won [127] The Male Movie Star of 2019 Will Smith Nominated Hollywood Music in Media Awards November 20, 2019 Best Original Song – Feature Film "Speechless" – Alan Menken, Benj Pasek and Justin Paul Nominated [128] National Film & TV Awards December 3, 2019 Best Actor Will Smith Nominated [129] Mena Massoud Nominated Best Newcomer Nominated Best Actress Naomi Scott Nominated Best Supporting Actress Nominated Best Director Guy Ritchie Nominated Austin Film Critics Association January 6, 2020 Best Motion Capture/Special Effects Performance Will Smith Nominated [130] Critics Choice Awards January 12, 2020 Best Song "Speechless" – Alan Menken, Benj Pasek and Justin Paul Nominated [131] Costume Designers Guild Awards January 28, 2020 Excellence in Fantasy Film Michael Wilkinson Nominated [132] Visual Effects Society Awards January 29, 2020 Outstanding Created Environment in a Photoreal Feature Daniel Schmid, Falk Boje, Stanislaw Marek, Kevin George ("for Agrabah") Nominated [133] Outstanding Special (Practical) Effects in a Photoreal or Animated Project Mark Holt, Jay Mallet, Will Wyatt, Dickon Mitchell (for "Magic Carpet") Nominated Art Directors Guild Awards February 1, 2020 Excellence in Production Design for a Fantasy Film Gemma Jackson Nominated [134] Golden Raspberry Awards March 16, 2020 Razzie Redeemer Award Will Smith Nominated [135] Billboard Music Awards October 14, 2020 Billboard Music Award Aladdin Nominated [136] "Speechless", a new original song written for Jasmine, was shortlisted for the Academy Award for Best Original Song at the 92nd Academy Awards, but was ultimately not nominated.[137][138] Future Sequel On August 12, 2019, producer Lin announced his enthusiasm for a sequel and revealed that Disney is in the early stages of developing a follow-up.[139] The studio also hopes to bring back Ritchie to direct and Smith to reprise his role as The Genie while also telling a story that's "fresh and new".[140][141][142][143][144] He later stated that if they would make a sequel to Aladdin, it would not be a direct adaptation of the animated films The Return of Jafar or Aladdin and the King of Thieves but could borrow elements of them. On the nontraditional aspect, the studio had originally planned for the film to be told in a nonlinear format.[20][21] On July 17, 2017, it was announced that Disney had hired Vanessa Taylor to polish the original screenplay by August, specifically some "character work" and what is called "script doctoring."[22] Meanwhile, Richie and the studio focused on casting the other main roles with filming slated to start in August in London.[23] When asked about Ritchie's take on the film, Pasek & Paul described it as "very muscular and action-packed."[24][25][26] Casting In February 2017, Lin said that they were looking for a diverse cast and that they would not try "to make Prince of Persia."[27] A worldwide casting call for the lead roles of Aladdin and Princess Jasmine commenced in March 2017, with principal production set to take place in the UK from July 2017 until January 2018.[28] The call for the titular role included both south Asian and southwest Asian (Arab) actors, which some critics suggested was "a simplistic conflation" that signaled "an ignorance offensive to both cultures."[29] On April 19, 2017, it was reported that either Gabriel Iglesias[30] or Will Smith were in talks to play Genie, for which the latter was confirmed in July.[31][32][33] In August, Dutch actor Marwan Kenzari joined the cast as Jafar, with Nasim Pedrad cast in a newly created role as Mara, "a hand maid and friend of Jasmine" who serves as a "comic relief." Numan Acar was set to play Hakim.[34][35] The following month, Billy Magnussen joined the cast in a newly created role as Prince Anders, alongside Navid Negahban as the Sultan.[36][37] In May 2017, Little Mix member Jade Thirlwall was in talks for the part of Princess Jasmine.[38] On July 11, 2017, it was announced that principal production on Aladdin had been pushed back by a month, to August 2017, due to struggles in finding the right actor to portray the titular role. "Little Mix's Jade Thirlwall to play Princess Jasmine in Aladdin remake?". Over 2,000 actors and actresses had auditioned for the roles of Aladdin and Jasmine, but finding a male lead of Middle Eastern or Indian descent in his 20s, who could act and sing, was seemingly difficult for the producers.[29] Naomi Scott and Tara Sutaria were the final two actresses in the running for the role of Jasmine, but neither could be cast until a chemistry test was done with whomever would be cast as Aladdin. The site's critical consensus reads, "Aladdin retells its classic source material's story with sufficient spectacle and skill, even if it never approaches the dazzling splendor of the animated original."[115] On Metacritic, the film has a weighted average score of 53 out of 100 based on 50 critics, indicating "mixed or average reviews."[116] Audiences polled by CinemaScore gave the film an average grade of "A" on an A+ to F scale, while those at PostTrak gave it an overall positive score of 90% (with an average 4.5 stars out of 5) and a 70% "definite recommend."[88] Writing for the Chicago Sun-Times, Richard Roeper gave the film 3 out of 4 stars, praising Smith, Scott, and Massoud's performances and calling it a "shining, shimmering live-action update."[117] Variety's Peter Debruge summarized his review with, "Will Smith steps into Robin Williams's shoes, bringing fresh attitude to the role of the Genie in Guy Ritchie's high-risk, mostly rewarding live-action remake." However, he criticized Kenzari's performance as Jafar, saying: "Dutch actor Marwan Kenzari may be a handsome alternative to the animated version's effete vizier, with his pencil moustache and Sophia Loren eyes, but he no longer looms large enough to feel like much of a threat."[118] A Mir Fantastiki review by Yevgeniy Peklo gave the film a score of 8/10, saying it was "probably the best Disney live-action remake up to date."[119] Despite praising the cast, William Bibbiani of TheWrap said of the film, "If you don't think about it very hard (although you probably should), the remake of Aladdin might entertain you.
